A CALL TO ACTION

NHS

Join the debate!

WHAT IS MOST IMPORTANT TO YOU AND YOUR FAMILY AND WHY?

WHAT MIGHT BE SOME OPTIONS FOR CHANGE?

WHAT DO YOU THINK ARE THE MAIN DIFFICULTIES AND OPPORTUNITIES FOR THE NHS OVER THE NEXT FIVE YEARS?

The NHS in England wants to hear your views and experiences on these and other questions.

Why? Across the country the NHS faces pressures as never before:

- Ever increasing demand
- More people living longer
- More people living with multiple illnesses
- Greater public expectation of services.

Rising costs and fixed resources mean different ways of doing things need to be explored, if high quality, free 'at the point of use' health services are to be safeguarded for future generations.

The NHS is now involved in a period of intense discussions with the public, clinicians, other NHS staff and the wider public in a 'Call to Action' debate on the issues.

Get involved

Telford and Wrekin Clinical Commissioning Group and Shropshire Clinical Commissioning Group want you to have your say. We have not made any decisions or assumptions about the future of local NHS services at this stage. You can have your say and inform our work designing and buying local health services in a number of ways.

To let us know:

- What is most important to you and your family and why?
- What might be some options for change?
- What do you think are the main difficulties and opportunities for the NHS over the next five years?

or, to give more general feedback on the issues raised by the 'Call to Action', please:

- Email calltoaction@telfordccg.nhs.uk
- Complete our online survey by 4 November 2013:
